UPRIGHT JAPANESE YEW

Taxus Capitata

This one form is probably the most useful and profitable of all evergreens. Grows in sun or shade; acid or normal soil; sandy or heavy. It is slow growing enough to require little care, and even if neglected temporarily it can still be brought back to specimen quality.

Dwarf enough, by clipping, for foundation use, it makes a fine specimen when old and is the best evergreen hedge known. It is well known and easily sold sight unseen, but attracts on sight, too. It sells for more money in proportion to its cost than most plants.

OUR ADVICE: Let some of the cheaper shrubs go this year and plant some Yew seedlings to make yourself a real profit 4 to 10 years hence--you can always sell Upright Yew, but you won't be able to buy more when these are gone :-

2 YEAR SEEDLINGS Now 3 to 5 inch, beginning to branch, heavier than ordinary
$4.00 per 100, 250 or more for: $30 [∞] per thousand
(Case lot of 3000 for $82.50)

Seedlings branch better than cutting-grown.
Run 95% or more true to form. Never heave in fall planting if thin mulch of salt hay used.

PHOTOS: Taken August 1942 in our nursery at Mountainville (Lebanon R.D.) N.J. J.S. Westendarp, manager. These are picked as typical of the growth of upright Yew from seed when cultivated and fertilized.

UNLESS parentage is known, Yew seed will make a hodge-podge of shapes and colors. Only from pure forest stands in Japan can come a pure strain of Upright Yew. We imported the last two years before the war the largest shipment of seed to arrive in USA of this species. One more crop of 2-year olds next year will be the last for years to come.

Dwarf Yews - Older stock

For greatest value upon the least land plant true dwarf evergreens and in particular the four forms of Yew here offered (fob. N.J.)

These are heavy, having been held back by pruning and transplanting. Ready to go! We can dig with ball easily enough and will B&B any of the four at 5¢ a plant extra. Jap. Beetle Zone only.

Set out with only the minimum care these dwarf Yews will increase ten times in value in five years.

UPRIGHT YEW

2-year SEEDLINGS !

TO THE TRADE ONLY:

Spring 1943

These are the last YEW seedlings you'll see for many a long year -- look ahead! Order NOW for shipment when you want them. We'll reserve until spring for 10% down but probably will raise prices by spring unless reserved now.

Besides the YEW here offered we can perhaps be of further service to you -- for 65 years we have helped nurseries find rare or scarce things at reasonable cost. We don't promise miracles, but it costs nothing to try us. A number of specialties are in our retail catalog (copy on request) which carries a 25% discount to the Trade.
